Frequently Asked Questions

How do I apply for the LIFE Scholarship?

There is no application for the LIFE Scholarship. The college or university will automatically determine eligibility and will notify students if eligible for the LIFE Scholarship. If you believe that you are eligible, but have not received notification from the institution, please contact the financial aid office at the college or university for additional information.

How will the new SAT effect the LIFE Scholarship requirements?

The SAT requirement for the LIFE Scholarship will remain at 1100. Only the math and critical reading sections will be taken into consideration for the Scholarship.

How long can I receive the LIFE Scholarship?

The LIFE Scholarship is limited to ten (10) consecutive terms for the first approved five-year baccalaureate degree program, eight (8) consecutive terms for the first four-year degree program, four (4) consecutive terms for the first associate's degree program or a two-year program that is acceptable for full credit toward a baccalaureate degree or two (2) consecutive terms for the first one-year certificate or diploma program. The available number of terms for scholarship funding is based on the time of initial college enrollment. For example, if a student enrolls in college in Fall 2005, the last term of eligibility to receive the LIFE Scholarship will be Spring 2009.

Can I qualify for the LIFE Scholarship if I graduated from a high school out-of-state or completed an approved home school program as prescribed by law?

Yes, as long as you can provide verification to the college that you were a dependent of a South Carolina resident at the time of high school graduation and at the time of college enrollment and you met all other eligibility criteria. In order to qualify for the LIFE Scholarship, the GPA and class rank requirements must be based on the UGS. Therefore, as a high school senior enrolled in an approved home school program or an out-of-state high school, you must request to have your grade point average and rank reported on the UGS. If you are home schooled, this information must be provided by the approved home school association. If you are attending an out-of-state high school, then the school must provide an official letter on the school's letterhead with the GPA according to the UGS. Class rank must be reported on the out-of-state school system.

May I receive the LIFE Scholarship if I am required to take remedial courses?

First-time entering freshmen attending an eligible two-year or technical college who enroll in remedial courses during the first term(s) of enrollment will not be eligible for scholarship funds during this period unless the student is enrolled in at least twelve credit hours of non-remedial courses. Credit hours earned during the term(s) of remedial enrollment will not be used to determine remaining scholarship eligibility at the completion of remediation unless the student has completed at least twelve hours of non-remedial coursework each term of enrollment. The student will be eligible for the LIFE Scholarship for the term following completion of remediation if the student was eligible to receive the LIFE Scholarship upon high school graduation.

What do I need to do to keep the LIFE Scholarship once it is awarded?

To keep the LIFE Scholarship, students must earn a cumulative 3.0 LIFE grade point average (GPA) and an average of 30 credit hours each academic year. In addition, any credit hours attempted or earned before high school graduation, hours exempted by examination, or advanced placement credit accepted by the institution as academic credit, will be reflected in the total number of cumulative hours earned. Also, remember that the academic year is considered fall, spring and summer. Therefore, you can use the summer to bring up a GPA or earn credit hours.

How do I get the LIFE Scholarship to transfer institutions?

If you transfer institutions you will need to contact the financial aid office at the new institution concerning your eligibility for the LIFE Scholarship.

What happens if I fall below the minimum credit hour or GPA requirement?

Students who fail to earn a cumulative 3.0 LIFE GPA at the end of the academic year or the requisite number of hours required, may regain eligibility the next academic year if their cumulative LIFE GPA is a 3.0 at the end of the academic year and they have earned a minimum of 30 credit hours if a rising sophomore, 60 credit hours if a rising junior, or 90 credit hours if a rising senior. The academic year is considered fall, spring and summer. Therefore, you can use the summer to bring up a GPA or earn credit hours. Please consult your college or university financial aid office to verify that credit hours earned during the summer at another institution will be accepted.

What happens if an extenuating circumstance has caused me to fall below the required number of credit hours or grade point average?

If a truly extenuating circumstance resulted in the loss of LIFE Scholarship eligibility, you may submit an appeal to the Commission on Higher Education. Applications for appeal may be obtained after June 1 from the institution's Financial Aid Office, the Commission on Higher Education, or <http://www.che.sc.gov/StudentServices/Appeals/AppealsHm.htm>. Applications are reviewed annually. The deadline for receipt of appeal applications for 2005-2006 is October 14th.

May I use credit hours earned through AP, CLEP or collegiate hours earned prior to high school graduation toward the credit hour requirement?

Any credit hours earned before high school graduation, hours exempted by examination, or advanced placement credit hours do not count against the semester limits and may be used towards the credit hour requirement if accepted by the institution.

Can I use the LIFE Scholarship to study abroad, co-op, or go on an internship?

Yes, you can use the scholarship, but the home institution must approve the internship, cooperative work program, travel study program, or National or International Student Exchange program and accept full-time transfer credit hours. In addition, you must continue to meet eligibility requirements. Please see LIFE Regulation for further details.

What happens to my LIFE Scholarship if I get deployed with the military overseas?

The semesters you are deployed will not count against the maximum terms of eligibility for the LIFE Scholarship.

What happens if I drop out of school and re-start the next semester?

The LIFE Scholarship is a continuous program. Therefore, if you drop out or take a leave of absence from the institution, the “clock is still ticking” so to speak. You will still have to adhere to the yearly credit hour requirements just like you would if you were still in school.

If I need to drop a class one quarter or semester will I lose the LIFE Scholarship?

No, you will not automatically lose the scholarship. Scholarships are awarded to full-time students annually. However, you must meet the credit hour requirement by the end of the academic year to maintain eligibility. Therefore, you must have a total of 30 credit hours after your first year, a total of 60 credit hours after your second year, and a total of 90 credit hours after your third year of college. Any credit hours attempted or earned before high school graduation, hours exempted by examination, or advanced placement credit accepted by the institution as academic credit will be reflected in the total number of cumulative credit hours earned.

What happens if I have been convicted of an alcohol or other drug misdemeanor offense?

Students who have been adjudicated delinquent or have been convicted or pled guilty or nolo contendere to any alcohol or other drug-related misdemeanor offense are ineligible for the scholarship for one academic year after the adjudication, conviction, or plea occurred. The student will lose eligibility the next academic year immediately following conviction and will lose the scholarship for the fall and spring terms.

May I qualify for the LIFE Scholarship if I complete my high school graduation requirements a semester early?

Students who complete their high school graduation requirements prior to the official graduation date reported on the final high school transcript may be eligible to receive the LIFE Scholarship pending the approval of the Commission on Higher Education. An Early Graduation Application Form can be obtained from the Commission on Higher Education or <http://www.che.sc.gov/StudentServices/LIFE/Early%20Graduation%20Form%202.doc>. The form must be submitted to the Commission on Higher Education for consideration.

May I qualify for the LIFE Scholarship if I qualify under the Americans with Disabilities Act (ADA) and Section 504 of the Rehabilitation Act of 1973?

Students who qualify under the ADA must register with the institution’s Disability Services Office. The institutional Disability Services Provider must provide written documentation to the Office of Financial Aid each academic year verifying that the student is approved to be enrolled in less than full time status or earn less than the required annual credit hours. In order to renew the scholarship each academic year, the student must complete the required number of hours approved by the institutional Disability Services Provider and earn a cumulative 3.0 LIFE grade point average.

If I am a LIFE Scholarship Recipient, am I eligible to receive Lottery Tuition Assistance during the summer of the same academic year?

No, according to the law, if you received the LIFE Scholarship, you cannot receive Lottery Tuition Assistance during the same academic year. For example, if you are awarded the LIFE Scholarship during the fall and spring terms, then you are not eligible to receive Lottery Tuition Assistance during the summer term. However, if you transfer mid-year from an eligible four-year institution to an eligible two-year institution and you received the LIFE Scholarship at the four-year institution, you may be eligible to receive Lottery Tuition Assistance.
